

Bronze Award Quick Reference New Guidelines

Overview of steps:

- Complete one Journey
- Build Girl Scout Junior Team
- Explore your community
- Choose your project
- Make a plan
- Put your plan into motion
- Spread the word

Complete one Journey- If you have not completed a Girl Scout Journey, now is the time! You can choose either “It’s Your World-Change It!” or “It’s Your Planet—Love It!”. It is up to the individual girl/troop on how long this might take, you may take all the time you need to complete this.

Build Girl Scout Junior Team- This is a team that includes you and other Girl Scout Juniors who are on this adventure together, plus your adult advisor (this can be the troop/group volunteer). This team will be whom you will be working on your project with.

Explore your community- Do some research in your community to find out what needs need to be met. Explore your neighborhood, school or take a car ride together and make notes on what you observe and discuss with your team what you feel needs improvement.

Choose your project: Meet with your team and brainstorm together on ways you can make a difference in your community.

Make a plan- Your team will need to organize your ideas and thoughts and create steps that need to be taken to get the project going.

Put your plan into motion- This is the time that your team will need to create a list of tasks and deadlines and figure out who will be doing what. Ask others for feedback, especially your troop/group adult volunteer. She or he will make sure your project idea is complete.

Spread the word- Congratulations! You and the Girl Scout Junior Team have created and carried out a project that makes a difference in the world around you! Now it is time to tell the story of all of your accomplishments. You can be creative by creating a scrapbook, writing a short play or creating a short film.

You can find a detailed version of “Guidelines for Girl Scout Juniors-Bronze Award” on our website at www.gswestok.org